FORMER GRAYLING MAN KILLED

AUTO-STALLS IN FRONT OF INTERURBAN

The sad news was received in Grayling early Tuesday afternoon of the sudden death that morning of Henry Harder in Lansing. Mr. Harder, who was 55 years old was instantly killed at 8:45 o'clock when a Michigan Electric Railway interurban struck his stalled automobile, at Cavanaugh crossing, three miles south of Lansing.

Mr. Harder had his automobile checked over at a garage only a few moments before and as he drove away he was said to have remarked to a garage attendant that he was not used to driving the machine.

The motorman of the interurban blew his whistle for the crossing, witnesses said.

Mr. Harder looked straight at the approaching electric car, stiffened in his seat apparently paralyzed with fear and his motor stalled just as the machine rolled onto the tracks.

The interurban was fully 200 feet away, but Mr. Harder sat in his auto with his gaze fixed on the car which in a moment had ground him to death beneath its wheels.

The heavy interurban struck the auto squarely in the middle reducing it to scrap iron.

The man's body was found 100 feet from the crossing literally ground to pieces in the rolled wreckage of his automobile.

A coroner who was called to the scene of the accident said he would arrange for an inquest immediately and the body was taken to the Coroner-Rundman funeral home.

Mr. Harder, who had been employed in Grayling as watchman at the Lake street crossing for some time, went to Lansing last winter, where he was employed placing safety gates at crossings for the Michigan Central.

Shortly after school was out this year, Mrs. Harder and sons joined him there to take up their residence. They had recently purchased a lot in Green Acres near Lansing and were living in a tent camp style for the summer and making preparations for building a home on the spot.

Mr. Harder was a veteran railroad "safety man," whose business for had been to make crossings safer for motorists. While in Grayling he filled his position most efficiently and also other jobs on which he was employed.

Miss Elizabeth, who is employed in the office of the Grayling Manufacturing Co., and Miss Helena who also remained in Grayling, left Tuesday night for Lansing.

The Harder family are fine people and have the sympathy of their many Grayling friends in their sorrow. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

HEAVY TRAFFIC ON TRUNK LINES

Toll taken of the traffic on the trunk lines in this county Sunday revealed an unusually heavy traffic, considering that nothing unusual was going on at the time.

Reports from Cheboygan indicate that all the resorts in the section are doing a big business.

GEN. BLACK HONORED WITH BANQUET

POPULAR OFFICER ENJOYS VISIT TO CAMP

Col. Kraft and the other officers of the 202d Coast Artillery gave a dinner in honor of Gen. C. E. Black, adjutant general of the State of Illinois, at Camp Grayling Wednesday noon. About a hundred officers and guests sat down to a dinner that was complete in every detail and very nicely served.

The guests found their places at the tables by place cards, containing, besides the name, the coat of arms of the regiment, printed and embossed in red, blue and gold. Also beside each plate was a printed menu card, reading as follows:

Given in honor of Gen. C. E. Black by the 202d Coast Artillery Regiment, Ill. Nat. Guard, Camp Grayling, Mich., July 18, 1928.

Menu Cream of Tomato Soup Hearts of Celery Gherkins Shrimp Salad Grilled Jumbo Squab Chicken Mashed potatoes Buttered Beets Orange Sherbet Punch

Layers Cake Assorted nuts Everybody thoroughly enjoyed this fine dinner as well as the pleasant social hour.

This was Gen. Black's first visit to Camp Grayling and he expressed himself as very much pleased with the place. He arrived in camp Wednesday afternoon and left shortly after the banquet.

Col. Richings J. Shand is a most welcome visitor at the camp, arriving Tuesday. He is not only greatly loved by the officers and men, but when he appears in camp it means "pay day." By his thoroughly laid plans and splendid system a few thousand dollars were quickly and equitably distributed, and everyone was happy. Col. Shand is adjutant general of Illinois National Guard.

Col. Leroy Pearson, quartermaster general of Michigan National Guard, and U. S. property custodian, was one of the invited guests at the dinner given in honor of Gen. Black.

The 202d Coast Artillery regiment will close its training period Friday and leave that evening for their homes in Chicago. It is hoped and expected that that organization will return to Michigan again next year.

One of the pleasant features found here by the officers of the regiment and U. S. army instructors and reserve officers in camp was the Grayling golf course. Thirty-six holes in a day of off-duty times, were the usual number played and it took a real fellow to follow them. One of the most enthusiastic in the group is Col. Ohnsted, and is said that he was hard to beat. The course is much improved over last year which the visitors appreciated very much. Next year it should be still better, and we hope they may find it as useful and pleasant then as it has been this season.

WIFE OF SUPERVISOR GOSHORN PASSED AWAY

Mrs. Floyd Goshorn passed away July 14th at her home in Frederic, following three months illness. She was 59 years of age.

Abbie Batterson was born December 17, 1868, at Grayling, Mich. At the age of five years she came to Frederic with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Batterson. She was united in marriage to Floyd A. Goshorn, May 8, 1907, and to the union were born five children: Kenneth, Karl, Marjorie, Doris and Janice, all of whom will continue to reside with their father at Frederic.

To mourn her loss there remain her husband and children, her mother, Mrs. Nancy Batterson of Frederic, one sister, Mrs. M. R. Hopkins of Walled Lake, Mich., and one brother, Elmer Batterson of Jackson, Mich., and numerous other relatives and friends.

TOP O' MICHIGAN POTATO SHOW GROWING

The Top O' Michigan Potato Show Association has expanded its territory following the action of the Boards of Supervisors in the Counties of Crawford, Oscoda, and Alcona during their June session. These Counties all voted to join the Top O' Michigan Potato Show Association and accordingly pledged their quota.

This action follows closely behind that of Kalkaska County whose Board of Supervisors voted to join the Show Association at their April session.

The addition of these four new members makes twelve counties in the Top O' Michigan united to further develop the potato and apple industries of Northern Michigan.

The Top O' Michigan Potato Show Association has had a steady and healthy growth. The first show in the fall of 1923 saw the Counties of Alpena, Cheboygan, Crawford, Oscoda, and Roscommon organized to support the Show. In 1924 Montmorency and Antrim Counties joined the Association. The third year (1925) Roscommon dropped out and Emmet was added. In 1926 Presque Isle County joined the Association. In 1927 Crawford withdrew and Charlevoix was added. In 1928 Crawford came back into the Association along with the three new Counties referred to.

There are now twelve counties in the uppermost portion of the Lower Peninsula joined to support the program as outlined by the originators of the Show, namely, "Quality Products for Seed and Table."

Each year has seen an increased premium list and a larger entry of exhibits. At the same time, the Association has been able to create a sinking fund and a yearly reduction in quotas has been made. This speaks for careful and conservative management.

Plans for the 1928 Show are well under way. Attractive premiums will again be offered, a good program is assured and the policy of adding new features each year will be followed. The Sixth Annual Show will be held at Gaylord, October 31 and November 1 and 2.

A. C. Lytle, Secretary.

E. M. T. HAS BOOTH AT INTERNATIONAL GATHERING

The East Michigan Tourist Association, through a booth at the International Advertising Conference at Detroit last week, advanced this section considerably as a recreational center. Thousands of pieces of literature were distributed to Detroiters who visited the show and to the delegates who attended the show from all sections of the country and from fourteen European countries. Some of the visiting delegates prolonged their visit to take advantage of some of East Michigan's resort sections.

BUSINESS MEN BANQUET OFFICERS

Col. Kraft and his staff of officers were guests of Grayling Board of Trade and other business men at a dinner at Shoppenagons Inn given in their honor Thursday evening of last week. The people of Grayling feel that there isn't much they can do toward helping to make the days more pleasant for the officers and men while in camp, so this was to let the visitors understand that they are always welcome to Grayling.

Mayor Hans Petersen welcomed them in no uncertain words and assured Col. Kraft and his officers that it was a real pleasure to have them here.

T. W. Hanson acted as toastmaster and introduced the speakers. Col. Kraft replied to Mayor Petersen's greeting and said that they already felt very much at home in Grayling, and expressed his appreciation for the courteous and friendly manner in which they were treated.

Capt. Patrick Malloy, chaplain of the 202d regiment, also was one of the speakers and he too complimented the people of the city for the way in which they treated the officers and men.

Mr. Hanson, the toastmaster, closed the addresses by recalling how it was in the early days of lumbering that Michigan, including Grayling had contributed to the building up of the State of Illinois and other neighboring states by its lumber. Lumber was shipped from here by boat to Chicago where it was used in the construction of buildings in that and other Illinois cities. Now, he stated, it is a pleasure to be able to furnish a training camp where the youth of Illinois may be treated and built up to better health and manhood.

It was a very pleasant gathering, and the dinner of fried chicken and other good things served by the Inn were greatly enjoyed.

FAREWELL DINNER FOR MR. AND MRS. A. E. MASON

A dinner of beautiful appointments was given Tuesday evening by the members of the Bridge Club to which Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Mason belong.

The dinner was served at the Hanson dining hall where place cards marked the seating of twenty guests. The evening was spent playing bridge, Mr. and Mrs. Mason receiving both the high score and guest prizes.

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENT

To the voters of the 28th Senatorial District. I respectfully announce my candidacy for the office of State Senator of this district to be nominated at the Primary election on September 4th. If nominated and elected I will at all times be on the job in Lansing.

TONY ACHARD, Clare, Mich. 7-12-1f.

ARTILLERY BAND GIVES CONCERTS

Grayling people greatly enjoyed the band concerts that were given by the 202d Coast Artillery band in the band stand in the court house park on Friday and Tuesday evenings. The music was high class and brought out large crowds both evenings and each number was loudly applauded which plainly showed that the music was much appreciated. Mr. John Heidi rendered several delightful solos on both occasions, which were highly enjoyable. Mr. Heidi also plays saxophone in the band. After the concert the band boys were treated to refreshments complimentary of the Board of Trade at their club rooms.

The band is under the direction of G. P. Greenwood and he is to be complimented on his fine band. On Thursday night the band will give a dance at Collen Inn, Lake Margrethe, complimentary to the people of Grayling. Everybody is cordially invited. The party is free to all.

WATCH THE LITTLE THINGS AND THE BIG ONES WILL TAKE CARE OF THEMSELVES

(By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift.) There are many definitions of thrift. This one may be added to the list: To be thrifty is to appreciate the value of little things.

This may seem trite yet it is one of the rules of progress. The towering office buildings in our great cities are made up of a countless number of small objects—brick, stone, steel, tile. The great railroads that stretch their way across the Continent consist of countless ties and rails. The mighty engines that drive man's teamships across the sea must turn the propellers innumerable times. One turn of the great screws means little but a succession of little revolutions accomplish the miracle of ocean travel.

The story recently was told how five British hospital beds are being endowed from the proceeds of the sale of tin foil collected by the Ancient Order of Druids. Last year over sixty tons of waste were collected and sold for a sum approximating $10,000.

There is an old saying, "Save the dimes and the dollars will take care of themselves." Conversely, it might be said, "Squander the dimes and the dollars will be wasted, too."

It is well to have ever in mind the great importance of the so-called little things of life. Little sums of money, continually saved, become fortunes. Little habits of prudence and watchfulness, develop sturdy characters.

It is not easy to bring one's self to a realization of these fundamental truths. But the difference between happiness and misery, between progress and stagnation, between wealth and poverty, between good health and disease, between success and failure, is often just a matter of little things.

July 22, 1928. Vacation Sunday—A Great Tribute

"In all the world, few men can offer a record of achievement comparable with his. His personal record is good; his family life above reproach; his public career a story of enormous tasks well done." So writes the editor of the great interdenominational weekly, The Christian Century, concerning Herbert Hoover, the republican candidate for the presidency.

It is heartening in these days to have such a character before the American Republic. Apparently, here is a man who leads. A man who is a statesman and a leader rather than a politician of the "lap-trap" sort.

Under his leadership as president, we can hopefully view the future of our beloved Republic and feel that America will be first in the great humanitarian movements in the world.

Interesting Events In Grayling 23 Years Ago

INTERESTING ITEMS OF NEWS GATHERED FROM THE FILES OF THE AVALANCHE OF 23 YEARS AGO.

Thursday, July 20, 1905

Miss Frieda Niles went to Maple Forest last week for a visit with Miss Laura London.
Mrs. Wm. Schreiber went to Vassar and Mayville, Tuscola County, last week for a visit.

W. Jorgenson is keeping up with the procession, by having his store front repainted a clear white.

M. A. Bates has had his new store occupied by McMillan's Cafe, repainted, which helps the appearance of that side of the street.

Henry Merryfield was arrested July 2d for assault and battery on his wife, and put off his trial till the 14th, when the jury said "guilty," and Justice Mahon said $25.00 and costs, or sixty days in Detroit. Merryfield is a capable man, with a nice family of three little girls, but the liquor habit has debased him. The fine was paid.

Herbert Cook and Floyd Moon, of Beaver Creek got into an altercation with C. Hanson in his pool room, one day last week, which led to a clinch between Moon and Hanson, when P. Jorgenson attempted to separate them and was struck over the head by Cook with a billiard cue and dangerously wounded. Hearing the racket Emil Kraus went in, and found Moon attempting to kick Hanson in the head as he was down, and asked him to desist, and Moon turned his attention to him, when constable "Joe" Kraus entered and as he was about to arrest Moon, Cook came from behind and struck him across the cheek with the cue, cutting it badly, and breaking out two teeth. Sheriff Stillwell caught Cook that night and he is now boarding with him in default of bail for his appearance for trial in the Circuit Court.

BAY CITY STORE GETS EFFECTIVE WINDOW DISPLAY

(By E. M. T. Service)

Effecting a tie-up between the East Michigan Tourist Association and merchandise to supply the needs of campers, tourists and resorters, Walther's Department Store of Bay City installed in one of its main display windows an appealing exhibit which attracted a great deal of attention from residents of the city and visitors. An E. M. T. sign, one of those issued to members by the association; enlarged photographs of East Michigan scenic spots, with rustic frames; copies of E. M. T. guides and Vacationlands were used emphasizing the natural appeal of campers equipment etc.
The Bay City store reports that considerable business was secured through the display and it is suggested that other stores in other cities could profitably use the idea.

Link With the Past

A shark's tooth was unearthed in a garden at Hillington between Oxbridge and Ikenham, Middlesex, England. When sent to the British Museum it was identified as belonging to the Middle Eocene period.

Regions of the Ironwood

The ironwood tree grows from the Canadian line south to Florida, west to South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas. This tree is from 50 to 60 feet high, and bears a narrow lance-shaped leaf with scalloped edge.

DIPPING INTO SCIENCE

The Only Liquid Metal

Mercury is one of a group of four elements. The others are gold, silver and copper. Mercury is the most valuable of these and is the only liquid metal. It has the appearance of melted silver and is useful as a conductor of electricity, as medicine, in the making of thermometers, barometers, the silvering of mirrors and many other ways.

AGRICULTURAL NOTES

One Cow vs. A Dozen

Analysis of more than 100,000 yearly individual records from cows on test in dairy herd improvement associations indicates that, on the average, cows that produced 10 pounds of butterfat a year returned $14 each over cost of feed; those that produced 200 pounds, $54 over cost of feed; 300 pounds, $98; 400 pounds, $138; and 500-pound cows returned $178 over cost of feed. Thus the man milking a 500-pound producer would have more return than if he milked a dozen 100-pound cows, and this would take no account of the added labor of milking and caring for the larger herd or of the much greater expense of providing stable room for a herd instead of a single animal. The figures from returns are based on farm prices from all parts of the country, including whole-milk districts.

Woods Cutting Demonstrated

Woods meetings were held on 19 farms in 8 counties of New York State recently to demonstrate improvement cuttings of cordwood. In each case an extension forester from the State college of agriculture went over the woodland with the owner and marked a sample area. Such trees as soft maple, beech, ironwood, and poplar were marked to come out in order to give a better chance of development to valuable crop trees such as white ash, hard maple, black cherry, and basswood. Later the owner carefully cut and stacked the marked material, keeping a record of the time consumed by the owner and second meeting, widely advertised in the community, the cut-over area was inspected and its appearance was compared with that of the uncut portions of the woodland. The cordwood was carefully measured and its cash value in the woods was determined at a rate agreed upon by those present as reasonable. The average net return from the cuttings, which in each case left the woodland in better shape for future growth, was $59.30 per acre. On G. F. Allen's farm in Ontario County the return was more than $128 per acre.

Ice cream manufacturers are experimenting in the use of a honey for sweetening their product, and some are using it regularly, especially in Sherberts. When cane sugar is used in sherberts it precipitates rather quickly, so the product must be used promptly. Honey is an invert sugar and does not crystallize when mixed in sherbert.

Ordinary drain tiles 3 or 4 inches in inside diameter and 1 foot in length are very good for blanching celery in the home garden. The bunched should first be tied together with string and the tiles slipped down over the tops of the bunches. Drain tiles are especially desirable because they produce celery of good flavor. If heavy paper is used for blanching, it does not contain tar or creosote, as these will injure the flavor of the celery.

What is considered a heavy infection of bovine tuberculosis now exists in only 3.5 per cent of the total area of the United States, according to the fourth biennial survey of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This figure indicates a great reduction since the last survey was made. The average now paid is larger than formerly. During the ten months ending in April the average State indemnity was $29.83; the average Federal indemnity, $18.65; and the average salvage, $38.00.

By turning under crimson clover grown with the corn crop, a farm in Edgecombe County, N. C., carrying on a demonstration in soil improvement in cooperation with the county agricultural extension agent, secured an increase of 6.3 bushels of corn per acre over the corn crop where the clover was cut for hay. This was in 1920, when one crop of clover was turned under. In 1921 a second crop of crimson clover was turned under and an increase of 2 bushels of corn per acre was secured. The type of soil in this county was Norfolk sandy loam, and 40 pounds of a home-mixed 6-3-4 fertilizer were applied to an acre.

The use of temporary pastures for sheep aids greatly in the prevention of infection by stomach worms and other internal parasites. Most flocks have some degree of infection from these parasites and in seasons of high temperature and excessive moisture these parasites are most likely to spread. Young lambs are especially susceptible to injury from parasites and will be exposed to less danger if moved to fresh ground at intervals of about two weeks than if permitted to remain longer on the same fields. Two weeks is the longest time that one place of ground should be grazed by lambs during the warm part of the season. Older sheep are less susceptible than lambs and may be allowed to use feed left in fields from which the lambs have been removed.

Cockroaches Can Be Controlled

It may surprise many people to learn that the cockroach has one redeeming trait. According to entomologists of the United States Department of Agriculture, his common and offensive house pest, will prey on that other disgusting insect, the bedbug. It is not recommended, however, that cockroaches be kept for eradicating the bedbug. There are other more approved methods for exterminating that insect.

The nuisance of roaches in offices and living rooms of houses can be reduced, if not removed entirely, by elimination of all attractive substances, according to Farmers' Bulletin 658-F, "Cockroaches." If care is taken to keep food from living rooms, offices, desk drawers, and no attractive odors of food are permitted to remain, the roach nuisance can be restricted largely to places where it is necessary for food to be kept. In such places the storage of food material in insect-proof containers or in ice boxes, together with thorough-going cleanliness, will go a long way toward preventing serious annoyance. Roaches may be controlled by the use of poisons and repellents, fumigants, and traps. One of the most effective and simple means of ridding premises of the pests is by the use of commercial sodium fluoride, a powder easily obtainable. It may be used in the pure form or diluted with one-half with some inert substance such as powdered gypsum or flour. With a dust gun or blower the sodium fluoride can be thoroughly dusted about the runways and hiding places of the roaches. The immediate effect is to cause the insects to rush out of their hiding places and run about more or less blindly, showing evidence of discomfort, to be followed in the course of a few hours by their death. The dust acts both as a stomach poison and as a contact poison.

A copy of the bulletin, describing a number of other methods of reducing or eradicating the nuisance, may be obtained from the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Some Important Factors To Observe In Trapping House Flies and Blowflies

While the logical method of fly control is to prevent the multiplication of these pests by proper disposal of excrement, a more or less degree of control can be maintained by the use of traps. Both the house fly and blowflies may be captured in traps, according to the entomologists of the United States Department of Agriculture, but the character of the bait and the location of the traps are important considerations in trapping the different kinds of flies.

Farmers' Bulletin 734-F, "Flytraps and Their Operation," by F. C. Bishop of the Bureau of Entomology of the department, gives directions for constructing a number of different kinds of traps, the same general principle being used in all these flytraps though they appear to be different. The flies are attracted into a cage through a passage, the odor of which is large and the exit small. Once inside there is little chance that the flies will find the way out.

Light is an important factor in the success of all flytraps because flies have a tendency to go toward the light, and they will usually enter a trap by flying toward the light after having been attracted beneath it by the odor of the bait or after entering a room in search of food.

It is important to use a bait suitable for the kind of flies to be caught. For house flies, a mixture of cheap cane molasses with three times as much water is one of the most effective and economical baits to use. Blowflies are more readily attracted by animal matter, and slaughter houses, markets, and butcher shops where blowflies are troublesome, such baits as mucous membranes, which cattle or hogs have are suitable.

A copy of the bulletin may be obtained from the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Rural Housewives Form Honor Club

East Lansing, July 17.—Recognition of the indispensability of the homemaker on the farm will be given by the award of the title "Master Farm Homemaker" to a group of five women during Farm Women's Week at Michigan State College, beginning July 23.

Michigan "Master Homemakers" will be affiliated with similar groups chosen in 20 other states through the efforts of "The Farmer's Wife," a national publication for farm women.

Any rural homemaker in Michigan was eligible for nomination to the group. The nomination had to be made by five neighbors, and the nominees were rated by a committee chosen by the home economics extension division at Michigan State College.

When mother comes to college for Farm Women's Week, she will have opportunity to enjoy splendid instruction in home problems and at the same time an ideal vacation, in the opinion of those who have attended in former years.

A varied program has been arranged for each day. Inspirational hours will be spent on such topics as literature, music, art and science, and the drama. Many delightful social events including teas, receptions, and campus tours have also been arranged.

Farm Women's Week will serve as an adjunct to the annual M. S. C. Farmers Day, which will be held on Friday, July 27. An opportunity will thus be provided for Mother to enjoy a week of pleasure, and then for Dad and the children to come down on Farmers Day.

Oldsters To Cradle At M. S. C. Farm Day

East Lansing, July 17.—Oldtimers in Michigan agriculture, veterans of the days before modern machinery speeded up farm operations, will stage an old-fashioned cradling contest as one of the features of the annual Farmers Day at Michigan State College on Friday, July 27.

The swish of the cradles will keep time to the less picturesque but much more efficient action of the "combine," newest thing in labor saving farm machinery, which will be demonstrated on the M. S. C. farm at the same time.

Other contests on a long program of special features announced for the day include: a poultry judging contest, a church choir singing event, a dinner calling competition for the ladies, and a rousing "hog calling" number for the leather lungs among the visitors. The last two events will be staged at the afternoon general meeting, when the crowd is gathered to hear Senator Arthur Vandenberg and other speakers on the program.

To See College At Work

Hundreds of acres of experimental projects of vital interest to Michigan farmers will be inspected during the morning by the Farmers Day visitors. The college livestock and poultry, the forestry tracks, the orchards, and even the campus and buildings will all appeal to certain groups of the crowd. The annual Farmers Day is said to be the best time of the year to see M. S. C. at work in agriculture.

FLAMING YOUTH AT THE WHEEL

By Erwin Greer

(President Greer School of Electrical & Automotive Trades, Chicago Ill.)

Recently I made a few remarks about the perils the motorist encounters from fool human obstructions in the middle of the block; kids who imagine that a kiddie car can demolish a two-ton truck.

The newspapers are full of accounts of the amazing recklessness of young drivers, of judges berating them in court and taking their licenses away. The palpable reason of the frequency of these stories that usually they are more spectacular than those dealing with the transgressions, traffic speaking, of the older generation. Experts say the fact that, by actual number, youths figure in less than one-third of our accidents is that the young driver has a surer, firmer hand; that while he may take what appears to many as the most reckless chances, they are in reality not less chances at all, but merely the result of confident reliance on a much firmer sense of judgment, of distance, timing, and so forth. Bah!

How do these kids get away with it? The lads who pile three flappers with them on the front seat of a fliv and hang three more couples onto the back and hit the middle of the road at 50 around curves, with one hand on the wheel and the other clutching his gal?

How do these motorcycle demons, who stick a couple of hot mamas on the rear reason? How do these delivery kids snort down residence streets at twice the speed limit and run circles around markers and telephone poles and STOP signs and safety zones, get away with it?

I've been driving automobiles since before these wild demons were born, yet there never was a day when I could pull the stunt they do, and girls as well, pull without getting either into the jail or into the ditch.

Will some one please write me and explain how they get away with it?

FLYING FIELD NEAR ONAWAY

(By E. M. T. Service)

The George Ranch, 15 miles south of Onaway on Black River has also been developed into a landing field for that section and is available for tourists and resorters. The runways are north and south and east and west in the shape of a cross and a wide field in the center about 100 yards with an entire absence of trees or wire to hamper the landing or take-off.

The East Michigan Tourist Association has for some time past been urging the construction of flying fields and reports reaching the association indicate a decided emphasis in this direction. Within a short time it is expected that many other flying fields will be established in East Michigan.

Is THIRTY the Love? Deadline!

George Ade has always been prone to call himself a thirty-year-old man, and when the statisticians claim that one out of every three men is a poet. He was born in Kintland, Ind., in 1890, and he now devotes a good deal of his time to New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, and other cities. He is a humorist, he writes at Palm Beach at his country place, Brook, Indiana.

George Ade broke into journalism in Louisville, Ind., after graduating from the University of Chicago, where he was a member of the staff of the Record and for two years, and then he went to Chicago where he became a staff writer for the Chicago Tribune. He is chiefly famous for his facile and elegant style, and he is responsible for "The Sultan of Zulu," one of the greatest pieces of musical comedy ever produced. "The Shogun," "The College Widow," "The Fair Co-Ed," and a host of other musical comedies and plays. He is not married.

By GEORGE ADE

Will Durant says that no man, and presumably no woman, above the age of thirty, is capable of falling in love. When he talks about "love" probably he means the nerve-racking, soul-devolving, devastating kind of passion which needs an ashbin covering. He means the hysterical infatuation of a Canille for an Armand Duval or the moon-struck ravings of a Romeo for a Juliet.

What Will is trying to say is that anyone who arrives at the age of discretion, gets over that kind of temporary insanity. If so, why worry about it? Did you ever live in the same house with some one who was really in love? Didn't you feel sorry for the victim? Isn't it depressing to see a grown person biting his nails, looking wild out of the eyes, talking verbal chocolate sundae, and gurgling into the telephone twenty minutes at a stretch?

It is hard work to make any intelligent comment on Mr. Durant's brash observation, because no one really knows what "love" is. There may be one genuine brand, but the market is flooded with imitations.

Love is something like the radio. We know that it is here and in operation, and popular, but we don't know just how or why the darn thing works. What is commonly known as "love" is a sudden ambition on the part of some person to acquire a proprietary interest in something which seems attractive and desirable. It is the same old story of the man who feels that he has a dandy new type of car at the automobile show. And the "love" which wells up in your heart will cool down when the varnish is worn away and the transmission fails to work.

Suppose that people over thirty are not capable of red-hot devotion. What of it? If you will hang around the divorce courts you may discover that most of the busted romances started out with her and she being simply crazy about each other. Crazy, and didn't know it.

He thought he was getting an angel who had skidded on a cloud and dropped down from heaven instead of an overindulgent flapper with a temper like a cross-cut saw. She thought she was getting St. Gubaland in Oxford bags, and found out, later on, that she had drawn a mental defective with a vandynde sense of humor.

Probably 99 per cent of the marriages are due to the fact that certain men get tired of clubs, hotels, boarding houses or parental supervision, and exactly the same number of women, above the age of eighteen want to prove to their friends that they can do it. When the experimental mate meets the determined female, and they come to an arrangement, the common explanation of their getting together is that a "love affair" has developed, whereupon Cupid drops his bow and arrow and lands around on the ground in an epileptic convulsion.

A very large percentage of the happy marriages I have observed from the sidelines were framed up in a businesslike manner, by persons who were well above Mr. Durant's age limit. I am not claiming that the people who entered into these partnership agreements were capable of the kind of love made famous by Abelard and Heloise, Francesca and Paolo, Venus and Adonis, and those two underworld lovers immortalized in song, viz. Frankie and Johnny.

Mr. Durant probably is right in suggesting that there are marriages of convenience, prompted by a lonesome longing for companionship, or the weary of sitting all by himself in a restaurant and the old maid decides that a husband will be more of a protection to her than a police dog, because a police dog cannot be depended upon to bite intruders, while husbands have been known to.

Mr. Durant would have played safe if he had said that there can be no "true devotion" after the age of fifty. We send a man to jail for drinking a glass of claret with his dinner, but we permit him to go and take out a marriage license after he is so old that he has to be propped up during the ceremony. Irving Berlin knew what he was writing about when he composed that song entitled "Don't Wait Too Long."

But when Mr. Durant insists that the fires of love burn themselves to ashes before the man or woman is thirty years old, he is making a bold declaration which he can never prove.

"I Don't Know Music, But—"

Quite often one hears the expression, "I don't know anything, about music, but I like it," etc. An unexpected variation on this well-worn theme pleasantly saluted my ears while engaged in conversation with a clever woman in a town in northern Connecticut. She had returned from the service at church and remarked casually: "I don't know anything about music, but I hate our choir."—William Lyon Phelps in Scribner's.

FORMER PRESIDENT BROUGHT TO GRAYLING FOR BURIAL

The remains of Mrs. Henry Petersen, who passed away at her home in Marlette, Friday were brought to Grayling Saturday for burial, the funeral being held Sunday afternoon from the Danish Lutheran church with many old friends of the family in attendance.

Mrs. Henry Petersen was born in Fyn, Denmark, January 19, 1868, and departed this life, after a lingering illness at her home on East Marlette Street, Marlette, Michigan, Friday morning, July 15, 1928, aged 60 years 5 months and 24 days.

Her maiden name was Anna Marie Michelson. She was the daughter of industrious and devout Danish parents. Denmark continued to be her home until she reached her early twenties, when she came to the United States, which was destined to be her home until the end of her life's journey.

On September 6, 1889, she was united in marriage to Mr. Henry Petersen, at Grayling, Michigan, where the home was established. This union was blessed with five children, two of whom predeceased the mother. Three devoted daughters, the husband, a sister in Denmark, and a brother of Portland, Ore., remain to mourn the departure of the affectionate and devoted mother. The daughters are all married and are residents of Detroit, being, Mrs. James Williams, Mrs. Henry Kotner, and Mrs. Charles Hall. It was their joy to minister to the mother throughout life, and especially during her long and painful illness.

Grayling, Michigan continued to be the family home until 1910, when a removal was made to Marlette, and here in this tranquil little city she enjoyed life to the full. A kind Providence blessed the family with peace and plenty, and for all of the blessings of life she was profoundly grateful. When illness came the devoted husband did all within his power, through the help of medical skill, to ease her sufferings, and prolong her days, but an over-ruling Providence was calling her away to that land where the inhabitant shall never say I am sick, and where "God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying; neither shall there be any more pain; for the former things have passed away."

She will always be remembered as a devoted wife, a kind and affectionate mother, a sympathetic and helpful neighbor, and a devoted Christian. She was anxious to get well, and to continue in her place in the family, and in the world, but she placed her life in God's hands, and with implicit faith in her Saviour, Jesus Christ, she could say, "Not my will, but Thine be done." So that we know it is well with her for time, and for eternity. Our love is her eternal gain. And in her home-going the family have the sympathy of the entire community.

Brief funeral services were held from the late home in Marlette, Friday evening, July 13, 1928, conducted by the Rev. A. E. Cameron, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Mr. H. A. Tweed sang several appropriate solos. The remains were then taken to Grayling. Services in Grayling were held Sunday afternoon at the Danish Lutheran church conducted by Rev. K. Johansen. Interment was made in the Grayling cemetery.

Mrs. Clem Shaver

On the eve of her husband's relinquishment of the chairmanship of the Democratic national committee, Mrs. Clem Shaver took a parting shot at Gov. Al Smith, asserting that the governor has "stamped himself as a charlatan and a faker." The governor should have declined the nomination when his party adopted the "dry" plank, Mrs. Shaver said.

FREDERIC NEWS

Saturday morning the community was terribly surprised to hear of the death of Mrs. Floyd Goshorn as it was thought she was on the road to recovery. The remains were laid to rest Monday afternoon. Those from outside here for the funeral were, Eliga Flagg of Detroit, and Ray Hopkins of Pontiac, her uncle. Mr. Goshorn's brothers and relatives from the southern part of the state. The floral offerings were very beautiful.

Rev. Earl with the assistance of his wife and others has been very busy looking after Mr. Thomas' berry patch. He seems to be some worker in the garden as well as the pulpit.

Chester Burke is visiting at his home.

Mrs. Ed. Welch was much surprised to see her car had taken French leave. No trace of it yet.

Mrs. Laura Wallace is taking her vacation at the home of her father, James Patterson.

THE NEW MONEY

Everyone is waiting expectantly for the new paper money which, we are informed in dispatches from Washington, will soon be with us. The new money will be standardized in design and about two-thirds the size of the present currency. This is in line with the record of the Treasury Department for efficiency and economy. The new money will be economical because millions of dollars will be saved annually in cost of material, and time will be saved in production because twelve bills can be printed on one press at one impression while only eight of the present bills can be so printed.

Standardizing the designs will also be a big help to the public in counting and watching its money. For instance—there are now five different kinds of ten dollar bills. Under the new system of currency there will be but one kind and it will be easily distinguishable. The one dollar bill will have a design entirely different from the designs of the higher denominations, and will be recognizable at a glance. This is especially sensible in view of the fact that it will then be impossible for a counterfeiter to raise a one dollar bill to a ten or a bill of a hundred dollar denomination. The one dollar design would be recognized at once. The one dollar bill will carry George Washington's face and the $100 bill will have Franklin's photograph on the front, with an entirely different design from the one dollar bill on the back. Each of the eleven different denominations to be printed will have the face of a different patriot on the front and a separate and easily distinguishable design on the back.

It is interesting to note that the present change in our currency is the first of any importance in more than sixty years. From time to time proposals have been made to change the size and designs of our bills but these have always met with failure. The present plan was adopted after a great deal of study and consideration by the Treasury experts and is believed to be the last great change in currency. The smaller size of the bills will enable the fellow who has money to get along with a smaller and less cumbersome purse. The change will mark the passing of the yellow-back bill as the new issues will all be green backs. And as soon as the new issues are in circulation the old bills will be almost impossible to short-change you unless you are half asleep. The new bills will reach the public gradually, and will be paid out as the old bills are taken in. The old bills will then be destroyed.
